THE STRIKE STILL ON.

Rioting Kept Up in Connection With the Street Railway Troubles.

Six Hundred Special Deputies Were Assigned to Duty and Three Hundred Held in Reserve—Subpoenaing Kept Up.

St. Louis, June 1.—The order of the police commissioners on the sheriff of St. Louis county to swear in 1,000 special deputies was followed by another order to swear in 1,500 additional men, making 2,500 in all, for the purpose of aiding the police department in preserving peace and order. To a certain extent these orders have created consternation among men in all walks of life, as is evidenced by Sheriff Pohlman's statement that an epidemic of sickness has suddenly broken out in the city since the draft for the posse began. Nearly every man of any position, the sheriff says, who has been summoned to serve in the posse is scurrying along to get a physician's certificate that he is suffering from some chronic disease which unfits him for duty.

Albert Koenig, a union man, emptied the contents of a shotgun into the body of Police Officer Crane and was himself instantly killed by a bullet from the revolver of Officer Maher on Broadway, near the Southern electric power house, late last night.

St. Louis, June 2.—As regards riotous demonstrations and shedding of blood in connection with the strike on the St. Louis Transit system, yesterday was one of the most uneventful since the employees went out, only one name being added to the list of casualties, that of Officer Crane, who died of wounds received the day before.

Former Gov. Win. J. Stone is preparing the answer of the street railway to the injunction proceedings instituted in the federal court some time ago. Gov. Stone in the answer contends that there is an adequate remedy at law for a settlement of the difficulty without embroiling the federal government in the matter, and states further that there is no federal statute authorizing such an injunction as is prayed for in the United States court.

The swearing in of the posse continues in progressing smoothly. Nearly 500 men have been secured. When 1,000 men have been sworn in the force will be organized as a regiment, and if the 2,500 called for are sworn in, two regiments will be organized. Men of known military qualifications have been selected to drill and command the various companies.

St. Louis, June 4.—A riot of small proportion, during the progress of which a boy was fatally shot and a dynamite explosion marred what would have otherwise been an uneventful Sabbath. As a car on the Tower Grove line of the St. Louis Transit Co. was passing the corner of 12th and Calhoun streets a crowd of strike sympathizers began throwing rocks at it. An unknown man leaped from one of the windows of the car and fired a shot from a revolver toward the unruly crowd. The bullet sped over the heads of the mob and found lodgment in the breast of Peter Frank, a 16-year-old boy who was sitting in the doorway of his father's house, an interested spectator of the demonstration. A detachment of police dispersed the rioters and carried young Frank to the city hospital. The physicians say the wound will prove fatal.

At a late hour in the afternoon an explosion of dynamite shattered the cable conduits and switches on the Olive street line at the intersection of Maryland and Boyle avenues. No one was injured, but traffic on that end of the line had to be suspended. There is no clue to the perpetrators.

More than the usual quota of police was furnished for the protection of passengers and crews, and as a result the number of cars on the various lines of the Transit Co. was materially increased. Cars on the following lines were operated: Delmar avenue, Page avenue, Spaulding avenue, Compton heights, Chouteau avenue, California avenue, Tower Grove, Grand avenue, Easton avenue, Cass avenue, Olive street, Broadway, Fourth street, Sixth street, Northern Central and Union lines.

At 9:30 o'clock in the morning the nucleus of the first regiment of special deputies forming Sheriff Pohlman's posse comitatus, consisting of 10 companies of 60 men each, armed with riot shotguns, were assigned to active service in preserving order in the continuance of the street car strike. Their duties consisted in patrolling the streets, doing guard duty at the various power houses and cat sheds. The present intention of the police commissioners is not to detail any of this force to ride upon the street cars. Such of the posse as are not doing patrol duty at the power houses, cat sheds and other points where danger is imminent will be held in reserve at the station houses.

Assignment for Gen. Otis. Washington, June 1.—Maj. Gen. Otis probably will be assigned to command the department of the lakes with headquarters at Chicago within the next few months. Gen. Otis is expected to come east as quickly as he can.

Yaquis Again Unruly. Ortiz, Mex., June 2.—The Yaqui Indians have again become very annoying to the Mexican troops near Torin. Several night attacks have been made recently and a number of casualties are reported.

THE EUROPEAN STATION.

It Will Be Re-Established by R. R. Adm. Rodgers—The New Warsage Will Be the Flagship.

Washington, June 3.—R. R. Adm. Rodgers has been selected to re-establish the European station, according to the general understanding at the navy department, and will probably fly his pennant from the new battleship Kearsarge in the English channel before the end of August. At the final inspection of the battleship the first of this week by Adm. Rodgers this information was imparted to the officers of the ship, and they were too delighted to keep their good fortune as secret as the navy department wished for a month or two at least.

The choice of the Kearsarge as flagship of the European fleet is regarded as particularly appropriate, as she will create a good impression concerning the latest products of American naval ingenuity, including the superimposed turrets and electrical auxiliaries. Adm. Rodgers is also regarded as admirably fitted to command this important station, which was abandoned for lack of ships just before war was declared two years ago, and on which no American pennant has since been displayed except that of Adm. Dewey last year.

The other vessels of the fleet, except the Albany, which has just been commissioned in English waters, have not yet been selected, and it is possible that no others can be spared until next fall, when the admiral will naturally wish to cruise into the Mediterranean. By that time, unless the porte in the meantime pays the promised missionary indemnity, the command will be strengthened until capable of making a considerable display of force.

THE CANAL BILL.

It Was Made Special Order for Next Session—Amended General Deficiency Bill Passed.

Washington, June 3.—Soon after the senate convened Saturday, Mr. Morgan, chairman of the committee on inter-oceanic canals, made a request that the so-called Hepburn-Nicaragua canal bill be made the special order for consideration at 2 p. m. on Monday, December 10—the second Monday of the next session. Mr. Morgan said he realized the impossibility of obtaining consideration of the bill at this session. His request was agreed to.

When morning business was concluded the senate resumed consideration of the general deficiency bill. An amendment was offered by Mr. Morgan and agreed to, appropriating $13,565 to reimburse the Maritime Canal Co. of Nicaragua, for expenditures in aid of the commission authorized by act of congress known as the Ludlow commission for inspection and survey of the Nicaragua canal. An amendment was offered, and after some discussion was agreed to, to pay an extra month's salary to employees of the senate and house of representatives. After several minor amendments had been made to the bill it was reported to the senate, the amendments agreed to and the bill passed. This is the last of the general appropriation bills.

RUSSIAN CRUISER VARIAG.

On Her Builder's Trial Trip She Developed 22 Knots an Hour, Under Natural Draft.

Philadelphia, June 3.—The Russian cruiser Variag, which left Cramp's ship yard Tuesday for her builder's trial at sea, returned to this city Saturday after having been given a satisfactory test. The big warship and her battery were tried out in every conceivable way, and not one weak spot was found in the construction of the vessel or in her engines or boilers. On her speed trial, the cruiser developed 22 knots an hour, under natural draft, and with one of her boilers out of use, and the builders are confident that she can cover fully 24 knots when put under forced draught.

The Variag will have her official trial in July, and will be ready to be placed in commission late in August.

Plot to Assassinate the Sultan. Constantinople, May 31, via Frontier, June 3.—A plot to assassinate the sultan was discovered Monday last.

The ministers of war and marine and several high palace functionaries were concerned in the conspiracy. Fearing a general uprising if the conspirators were arrested, the sultan contented himself with dismissing them from office.

The Moors Are Marching.

Paris, June 3.—A dispatch to the Petit Journal from Oran says that the latest information from South Algeria foreshadows grave events. Several thousand armed Moors are marching to attack the three chief French stations of occupation, including Igil. The French are re-enforcing all three points, and strong outposts have been established.

Will Investigate Hotel Rates.

St. Louis, June 1.—W. J. Stone, chairman of the committee on arrangements for the national committee, will visit Kansas City to inspect the reconstruction of Convention hall and investigate the complaints of exorbitant hotel rates.

West Virginia Democrats.

Parkersburg, W. Va., June 4.—The democratic state convention will meet here at noon next Wednesday to select delegates and alternates at large to the Kansas City convention and to nominate a full state ticket.

IS AGUINALDO SLAIN?

Many Filipinos Killed in Luzon and Other Islands.

Their Loss in a Few Days' Fighting in the Different Places Will Foot Up at Least Six Hundred.

Vigan, Luzon, June 4.—Maj. March, with his detachment of the 33d regiment, overtook what is believed to have been Aguinaldo's party on May 19 at La Gat, about 100 miles north-east of Vigan. The Americans killed or wounded an officer, supposed to be Aguinaldo, whose body was removed by his followers. Aguinaldo had 100 men, Maj. March 125.

Maj. March's men entered La Gat on the run. They saw the insurgents scattering into the bushes or over the plateau. A thousand yards beyond the town, on the mountain side, the figures of 25 Filipinos dressed in white, with their leader on a gray horse, were silhouetted against the sunset. The Americans fired a volley and saw the officer drop from his horse. His followers fled, carrying the body. The Americans on reaching the spot caught the horse, which was richly saddled. Blood from a badly wounded man was on the animal and on the ground. The saddlebags contained Aguinaldo's diary and some private papers, including proclamations.

Manila, P. I., May 1.—(Correspondence.)—The last two weeks have seen a general spread of rebel activity throughout Luzon and even into the other islands, which has been sharply offset by immediate retaliation. The rebels have attacked by day and by night several of the 267 towns we garrisoned. Over 300 Filipinos were killed by troops of Gen. Young's command in North Ilocos province, during three days' hard fighting last week. Over a hundred were killed down in Camerinos province, under Gen. Bell, and at least fifty were killed in their recent attack upon Cagayan de Misamis in northern Mindanao. Five hundred dead Filipinos would be a conservative estimate of their losses during the past few days, and a number of smaller engagements that have passed unnoticed will bring the total up to at least six hundred. A remarkable feature is that during the fighting, which resulted in this heavy loss to the rebels, the American forces have not had more than six men killed and fourteen wounded.

On April 16, Lieut. Duncan, of the 34th, with eight men, met three hundred insurgents, and after a short fight, returned to Batavia and reported to Col. Howse. The colonel withdrew his troops from the town, and when the insurgents entered, he surrounded the place. A fight ensued, in which 150 Filipinos were killed. The official report of Col. Howse reads:

"The attack on Batavia, on April 16, was precipitated by three causes, the imprisonment of several insurgent leaders, Capt. Dodd's punishment of the rebels the day previous, when fifty-six were killed, and Lieut. Duncan's attack on the enemy that same morning. Duncan met them in the foothills, and with eight men dispersed two hundred, of whom seventy had rifles. He killed twenty-nine and captured twenty-two. He exhausted his ammunition and fell back, fighting all the way to Batavia, where Capt. Rollins prepared for the insurgents."

"When the insurgents reached Batavia their force had increased to six or seven hundred, who made a determined attack. It was necessary for our troops to charge the enemy in their positions, and two Americans were killed and three wounded. At times the fighting was hand to hand, and the desperation of the fanatics was shown by the enemy. By forced march, Lieut. Thaler, with twenty-five cavalrymen and ammunition, reached Batavia at 2:45 p. m. At 4 p. m. the enemy withdrew, but soon were greatly reinforced. They set fire to the town, and under cover of the dense smoke fought stubbornly. At 5:30 Lieut. Haight, with troops of the 3d cavalry, arrived, and the enemy was soon driven off. Their losses were 108 killed and wounded and 72 prisoners. This same day Capt. French, with 120 men, met the enemy near Vintor and killed 23."

Black Cancer Rush.

Newport, Vt., June 3.—An epidemic of black cancer rash prevails at West Derby, a suburb of Newport. Three deaths have occurred within a week, and in each instance the victim had been ill but two days when fatal symptoms appeared. They were buried immediately. About fifty houses have been quarantined, and schools have been closed and every possible step is being done to prevent further spread of the plague.

Keane, Archbishop of Dubuque.

Dubuque, Ia., June 2.—A letter received here by a local priest from a Rome correspondent says that Archbishop Keane, late rector of the Catholic university at Washington, has been appointed to succeed the late John Hennessey as archbishop of Dubuque.

Ministry May Resign.

The Hague, June 3.—The first chamber has rejected, by 29 to 20 votes, the government bill to insure workmen against accidents. It is expected that the ministry will resign.

REVOLTING SCENES.

Louis Klopsch's Report on How He Found the Famine-Stricken District in India.

Bombay, June 4.—Louis Klopsch, of New York, publisher of the Christian Herald, who arrived here May 14 and started at once on a tour of the famine-stricken districts, has returned after traveling through the most sorely stricken portions of the Bombay presidency, including Gujerat and Baroda. He makes the following statement regarding his observations:

"Everywhere I met the most shocking and revolting scenes. The famine camps have been swept by cholera and smallpox. Fugitives, scattering in all directions and stricken in flight, were found dying in the fields and roadside ditches. The numbers at one relief station were increasing at the rate of 10,000 per day. At Godhara there were 3,000 deaths from cholera within four days, and at Dohad 2,000 in the same period. The hospital death rate at Godhara and Dohad was 90 per cent."

"The condition of the stricken simply beggars description. Air and water were impregnated with an intolerable stench of corpses. At Ahmedabad the death rate in the poor-house was 10 per cent. Every day I saw new patients placed face to face with corpses. In every fourth cot there was a corpse."

"The thermometer read 115 in the shade. Millions of flies hovered around the uncleaned dysentery patients."

"I visited the smallpox and cholera wards at Viragan. All the patients were lying on the ground, there being no cots. Otherwise their condition was fair."

"I can fully verify the reports that vultures, dogs and jackals are devouring the dead. Dogs have been seen running about with children's limbs in their jaws."

"The government is doing its best, but the native officials are hopelessly and heartlessly inefficient. Between the famine, plague and cholera the condition of Bombay presidency is now worse than it has been at any previous period in the nineteenth century. Whole families have been blotted out. The spirit of the people is broken, and there may be something still worse to come when the monsoon breaks."

WANTS MORE SOLDIERS.

Gen. MacArthur Makes a Special Request for Cavalry, and Three Regiments Will Be Sent.

Washington, June 2.—Gen. MacArthur has asked for more troops in the Philippines, and has made a special request that only cavalry be sent to him. He also asked that they be regulars. In a short time three regiments of cavalry will be sent to Manila. It is probable that one will be taken from Cuba. The other two, which will go from this country, will be made up of the Sixth and a regiment to be determined upon.

Spoke While the Policemen Slept.

Newmarket, Ireland, June 4.—Two hundred police were sent here Saturday evening to suppress a prohibited United Irish league meeting called for Sunday. While the police were asleep in the morning about 7 o'clock James Christopher Flynn, nationalist member of parliament for North Cork, and E. Crean, member for the Ossory division of Queens county, slipped in unobserved, addressed a meeting of 200 in the town square and burned the proclamation prohibiting the meeting. The meeting dispersed amid cheers as the police appeared on the scene.

Judgment for $16,000.

San Francisco, June 2.—A judgment for $16,000 has been rendered against Frank Van Ness, the horseman, who about five years ago, while handling the race horse Morello, converted the animal to his own use and removed him to this state. An action was commenced by the owners, J. W. Singery and Louis Lammert, of Philadelphia, but during the proceedings the animal died, and a suit for $20,000 was brought. It was shown that Morello was a valuable horse, and the jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs. The case will probably be taken to the supreme court.

Will Meet in Raleigh Next Year.

Atlanta, Ga., June 3.—Secretary Royal Daniel, of the Cotton States association of the commissioners of agriculture there, announced Saturday morning that the next annual convention will be held in Raleigh, N. C., August 26, continuing three days. All southern states will probably be represented.

Demands of Machinists.

Philadelphia, June 4.—The union machinists of this city have decided to demand of their employers on Labor day (September 3) that they reduce the hours of labor from ten to nine a day, with a minimum of wages of 25 cents an hour.

Commerce of the World.

Washington, June 4.—Of the $18,000,000,000 worth of commerce done by all the nations of the world, England's share is 18.3 per cent, Germany's 10.8 per cent, and 9.7 per cent falls to the lot of the United States.

JOHANNESBURG QUIET.

Roberts Reports That Arms and Ponies Are Being Surrendered.

Col. Sprigg and His Battalion of Imperial Yeomanry Attacked Between Kroonstad and Lindley—No News From Pretoria.

Lourenco Marques, June 3.—President Kruger Friday was still at Machadodorp (about half way between Pretoria and the Portuguese frontier on the railroad between the Transvaal capital and Delagoa bay). Boer commands totaling about 10,000 men, held, Thursday, all the positions and hills around Pretoria. Another large command was at Bronkhurst Spruit (about forty miles from Pretoria, on the railroad leading to Delagoa bay).

London, June 4.—Lord Lansdowne, secretary of state for war, has received the following from Lord Roberts, dated Orange Grove, June 2:

"Johannesburg is quiet. The people are surrendering arms and ponies. Only three Boer guns were left in the fort. The shops are being opened, and there seems to be a general feeling of relief at the peaceful occupation of the town."

"The Queenslanders captured May 30 a Creusot, with 11 wagons of stores and ammunition."

"Commandant Botha, of Zoutspanberg, his field cornet and 100 prisoners were taken in the fighting around Johannesburg, some belonging to the foreign contingents and the Irish brigade."

"Owing to the interruption of the telegraph lines, I only to-day received a report from Col. Sprigg that his battalion of imperial yeomanry was attacked between Kroonstad and Lindley on May 29. Casualties to follow."

"The proclamation announcing the annexation of the Orange Free State was made known at Bloemfontein on May 26 by Gen. Pretymann, military governor. The troops under Gen. Kelly-Kenny formed a square, the royal standard was hoisted, the troops saluted, a royal salute was fired and the queen was cheered. The name 'Orange River Colony' was well received."

"Received a report yesterday that four prisoners had escaped from Pretoria."

There is no direct news from Pretoria of later date than Thursday evening. Gen. French's cavalry were then at Irene, eight miles south of Pretoria, and firing was heard there. Lord Roberts' messages about secondary operations elsewhere and the situation at Johannesburg, dated at Orange Grove, a farm four miles northeast of Johannesburg, show that on Saturday at 9:10 p. m. he was 25 miles from Pretoria.

The correspondents with Lord Roberts have not got through a line about the operations after the occupation of Johannesburg. Official messages continue to come through, but press telegrams are held up, probably to avoid their giving a hint as to what may be the pending operations. From the other side there filters through Lourenco Marques a mass of statements, some contradictory, others obviously improbable, but all purporting to be facts.

Passengers arriving at Lourenco Marques Saturday direct from Pretoria say that the capital was preparing to surrender when they left on Thursday. The first trains were dismantled. The Boer guard at Komatipoort searched all trains and turned back most of the fugitives, among them deserting foreigners who were trying to reach neutral soil.

REEVES ARRESTED.

The Confession Made by the Supposed Neely Accomplice Suspected to Be Only Half the Truth.

Havana, June 3.—A warrant was issued for the arrest of former Deputy Auditor W. H. Reeves, who was lodged in jail, his bail being fixed at $1,500. It is now believed that Reeves in his so-called "confession" only gave half the truth. Indeed, the delay in placing him behind the bars was largely due to the desire of the officials to obtain the remainder of his information regarding Neely's evolutions.

A very important feature relates to an allegation that Neely gave another man $15,000. This, if true, can only be established in the United States, and an inspector will leave Havana shortly to investigate. Reeves asserts that heavy mortgages were lifted from the property of the accused man by funds that could not have been obtained in any other way than through Neely.

Rathbone's Threat.

New York, June 3.—A Washington dispatch says Maj. Rathbone has written Assistant Postmaster General Perry Heath that if he is arrested he will make it decidedly uncomfortable for several others in a political way.

Emperor and Crazy Man.

Berlin, June 1.—Considerable excitement was caused here by the arrest of an individual in Unter der Linden as the emperor was proceeding to Potsdam station. The man's strange actions led to his arrest, and an examination of the prisoner showed him to be insane.

Indian Relief Fund.

Chicago, June 1.—The Chicago committee of the relief movement for starving India cabled $5,000 to Lady Curzon Thursday as its donation in relief of the sufferers.

CHINA BACKS DOWN.

Marines From Six Foreign Warships Allowed to Enter Peking.

The Chinese Foreign Office apologizes for having refused the Russians and French permission to land—Quiet in Peking.

Peking, June 1.—At 2:30 a. m. yesterday the foreign envoys received the reply of the Tsung Li Yamen to their ultimatum of Wednesday calling upon the Chinese authorities to consent to the landing of a force of marines to come to Peking to guard the legations. The ultimatum fixed the hour of 6 a. m. as the hour at or before which the reply must be forthcoming. The Tsung Li Yamen agreed to withdraw opposition to the coming of the guards.

Tien Tsin, June 1.—A special train has started for Peking with the following forces:

Americans—Seven officers and 56 men.

British—Three officers and 72 men.

Italians—Three officers and 39 men.

French—Three officers and 72 men.

Russians—Four officers and 71 men.

Japanese—Two officers and 24 men.

The foreign contingent also took with them five quick-firing guns. It is rumored that foreign troops will be opposed at the first gate of the Chinese capital, outside the wall.

London, June 2.—The Peking correspondent of the Times says: "The government gave every facility for the arrival of the foreign guards. The streets were orderly. The Russians, as well as the French, were forbidden to land Wednesday, but the Tsung Li Yamen has apologized, explaining the mistake."

Shanghai, June 2.—Twenty-three warships are now at Taku—nine Russian, three British, three German, three French, two American, two Japanese and one Italian. In addition to their crews, the Russians have on board their warships 11,000 troops from Port Arthur, with field equipment. Fourteen thousand Russian troops are held in readiness at Port Arthur.

London, June 2.—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says: "An active exchange of dispatches is going forward among the great powers relative to China. The colossal superiority of Russia's representation at Taku is regarded as significant. The triple alliance advocates united action by Europe to protect common interests."

Shanghai, June 2.—The detachment of over 100 international blue jackets has arrived at Peking.

Washington, June 2.—The marines that have arrived at Peking are for the purpose of protecting the foreign legations in that city and to check the designs of the Boxers so far as they are able and compatible. It is doubtless the party that left Taku three days ago and includes the men from the cruiser Newark that were landed at that port. It is also presumed that the party includes the Russians, Germans, French and British marines that were reported to have left Taku at the same time the men from the Newark began their march. The arrival of the marines is taken as evidence that they were not opposed by the hostile element that has arisen. It is a good three days' march from Taku to Peking and had the blue jackets been opposed their arrival would have been delayed.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 2.—Bishop J. W. Joyce, of the Methodist church, who spent much time in China and is thoroughly familiar with the country in which the Boxer outbreak is now, believes the powers will succeed in restoring order and in putting the railroad in operation. He points out that the atrocities committed have been confined to small towns and villages without military protection. He describes the trouble primarily to Chinese hatred of the present Mongolian dynasty.

Peking, June 2.—American and other foreign guards, numbering 340, arrived here in the midst of the Dragon festival. The streets were unusually crowded, and, though the people were greatly interested in the unusual spectacle, no manifestation of hostility was made.

The presence of the guards has already had a marked effect upon the hearing of the Chinese toward foreigners. The excitement in the adjacent country has been much allayed, but many Christian refugees are still flocking into the city. The "Boxers" are evidently moving aside. Unfortunately no leaders of the "Boxers" have been arrested, though their capture would have been easy. All the government has done has been to occupy the scenes of the disturbances, and no real repressive measures have been taken.

Tien Tsin, June 3.—The foreigners who escaped from Pao Ting Fu are ten miles from here. Four of the party have been killed and four are wounded. An expedition is proceeding to their relief.

Explosion of Chemicals.

Rochester, N. Y., June 2.—A heavy explosion of chemicals at Eastman Kodak works, just outside the city line, Friday wrecked a portion of that building. Foreman Tracey was instantly killed and several were injured.

Surgeon Delegates to Paris.

Detroit, Mich., June 2.—The International Association of Railway Surgeons appointed Dr. W. H. Caldwell, of Freeport, Ill., delegate to the international medical congress, which will meet in Paris in August.

IN KRUGER'S HANDS.

Message From Philadelphia School-boys Delivered to the President of the Transvaal.

Philadelphia, June 2.—The North American has received the following cable message:

"Pretoria, May 20.—By stress of dire circumstances the message from the schoolboys of Philadelphia to President Kruger, delivered this day, has the tone of sympathy and sorrow at the final misfortune which is about to wipe the South African republic from the roll of independent nations, rather than of encouragement to a people fighting for liberty—for the fight has been fought—and lost."

"The message was delivered in the executive chamber at the capitol, through the windows of which came the rumble of ox carts and general confusion attendant upon the evacuation of the city by the families of the Boers. The British are reported to be approaching."

"There was an impressive silence in the chamber as the stern and venerable president of this doomed republic bent forward to receive from Messenger Jules Francis Smith the packet which the boy had traveled 12,000 miles to deliver into his hands."

"Caesar, Morituri Te Salutamus," quoted Secretary of State Reitz, as the president accepted the message. Then he added a bitter epigram:

"On this occasion the message is reversed. Caesar greets those about to die."

"This reference to the United States and the message of sympathy from America to the president of a dying sister republic profoundly moved every one present. Tears appeared in the president's eyes as he took the packet."

"In delivering the message Smith made a manly speech, informing President Kruger of the nature of his mission as courier of the schoolboys of Philadelphia. Secretary of State Reitz translated Smith's simple sentences as the words were spoken."

"Then the book from the North American containing the narrative of the movement that culminated in the dispatch of the messenger and the newspapers clippings expressive of sympathy of the people of the United States with the Boer cause was presented."

"President Kruger's reply was grave and courteous. He tendered hearty thanks to the American people, and particularly to the liberty lads of Philadelphia for their sympathy, and charged Smith to return his greetings to the good people of America."

Then with fatherly kindness he shook hands with Smith, congratulating him upon completing his long journey in safety and expressing the hope that he would have an equally safe return to his distant home. The entire group was then photographed."

GIGANTIC PROPOSITION.

Movement Having for Its Object the Bringing of the Defeated Boers to Platte valley, Colorado.

Denver, Col., June 2.—Gov. Thomas has given his indorsement to a gigantic proposition, having for its object the bringing of the defeated Boers to the valley of the Platte, in Colorado.

The Union Pacific Land Co. proposes to give a million acres of land, to be taken up under the Carey land act, on the Julesburg and Wyoming divisions. There is to be no charge for the gift, and the company will undertake to transport the Boers to Colorado, being repaid on the installment plan after the communities are established and prosperous.

C. Wantland, agent of the Union Pacific, has left for the east, where he will meet the Boer envoys, and explain in detail the proposition.

Sympathy for the Boers.

City of Mexico, June 2.—El Correo Espanol, the organ of the Spanish colony here, says regarding England's policy of annexing the Boer republics: "Poor Boers. The world has applauded your heroism, but has not moved a finger to prevent the spoliation of which you are the victims. The nineteenth century goes out dishonored."

Congress Gold Mine Sold.

Phoenix, Ariz., June 2.—The Congress gold mine, owned by the Congress Gold Mining Co., and located 60 miles north of Phoenix, has been sold for $1,500,000 to a New York syndicate, including Warner Miller and John Mackay. The first payment which amounted to $200,000 was made Friday. According to the terms of sale the final payment will be made within one year.

Still Quarantined.

San Francisco, June 2.—Maj. Gen. E. S. Otis is still on board the transport Meade at the Angel Island quarantine station. It is not expected that he will land before Sunday or Monday. He will probably leave for the east on Tuesday next, as Pullman car accommodations have been reserved for that date.

Two Brigadier Generals Appointed.

Washington, June 2.—The president appointed Col. Luther H. Hale, of the 33d volunteer infantry (captain 7th cavalry), and Col. J. H. Smith, of the 17th infantry, as brigadier generals of volunteers in recognition of their distinguished services in the campaign in the Philippines. This action fills the only vacancies in the volunteer brigade rank. They were kept open in order to permit the president to bestow the appointments upon especially deserving officers in the field.

At the Wedding Breakfast.

Guest (with a leaning toward sentimental rhetoric offering a toast)—It was love that touched your young hearts, love that brought you together, love that is responsible for your present happiness, love—

Bride's Father (angrily interrupting)—Well, where do you think my money came in? Do you take me for a pauper?—N. Y. World.

The Place for Her.

"Papa," said little Percy, "why doesn't mamma travel with the circus?"

"Why?" Mr. Henpeck asked; "what could she do in a circus?"

"She might be the strong woman. I heard her telling grandma the other day that she could wind you around her little finger just as easy as nothing." —Chicago Times-Herald.

Stimulus of Years.

"This is a sad world; people lose all their enthusiasm after 50."

"That's not so; look at Cousin Georgiana."

"What is she enthusiastic about?"

"Why, stupid, keeping everybody from knowing she is 50." —Indianapolis Journal.

A Lucky Deformity.

"Pretty good joke on that latest jealous lover, wasn't it?"

"Go on!"

"Why, he got a gun and started out to kill his sweetheart, but he was so blamed cross-eyed that he shot himself in the back of the head instead." —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Miss-Statement.

The shoe clerk knelt at the maiden's feet. But the sale, alas! was not 2 B. For although she said that was her size, Her foot it seems was a 4 D. —Chicago Daily News.

THOSE SUMMER RESORT PHOTOS.

Handkerchiefs for Soldiers.

Russian soldiers are supplied with handkerchiefs at the expense of the government.

Her Champion.

Fay—That Miss Snapp is just hateful, isn't she?

May—Yes. You were present yesterday when she told me I was "the homeliest girl in our set," weren't you?

Fay—Yes, and I gave her a piece of my mind about it afterward.

May—That was kind of you, dear, but I hope you weren't too severe.

Fay—Well, I told her she ought to remember how sensitive you must be about it.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Willing to Help Him.

"You are troubled," she said.

"Alas! yes," he replied.

"Can I not help you in some way?" she asked.

"I guess not," he answered. "My creditors are importunate and I fear they will get all I have."

"Do not despair," she said, softly. "Remember, a married man's exemptions are greater than a bachelor's."

With a glad cry he folded her in his arms, for now he knew that she truly loved him.—Chicago Post.

Not Broken.

"So you quarreled with George," said one young woman.

"Yes," answered the other with much pathos.

"Is your engagement broken?"

"Oh, no. I told him I never wanted to see his face again, and he said that he would leave me forever. But we didn't go so far as to break our engagement." —Washington Star.

Where He Falls Short.

I like the man who comes along When things insist on going wrong And bravely tells me not to fret— Who cheers me with his hopeful song.

Who says: "Go in and win and let The world behold that you're a man Who will not brook defeat!" And yet I'd like him better far, I vow, If, after telling me I "can," He'd go ahead and show me "how." —Chicago Times-Herald.

ANNIHILATION OBSTRUCTED.

Repentance.

While yet the lamp holds out to burn, The vilest sinner may return; While his money holds out to burn he'll fall.

Most likely, to hit the said back trail. —Detroit Journal.

A Needless Expense.

"It costs a great deal to keep you in shoes, Tommy," sighed Mrs. Tucker, as she started him on an errand.

"She won't keep me in these shoes such a warm mornin' as this, you bet!" remarked Tommy to himself a few moments later in the solitude of the coal-house, proceeding rapidly to get outside of them.—Chicago Tribune.

His Explanation.

"Did you ever bribe anybody?" asked the man who is sadly undiplomatic.

"How dare you ask such a question?" exclaimed the professional influencer.

"When I find a man who can be made to agree with my views, I admire him and I think virtue ought to be rewarded. And I proceed to reward it." —Washington Star.

Discouraging Women.

"Some of the most successful men in politics," he said, thoughtfully, "have been those who have had little to say."

Naturally she was indignant.

"There you go!" she exclaimed.

"Always doing your best to discourage women!" —Chicago Post.

Still the Last.

Father—I'm glad to see, Johnny, that you were sixth in your class this week. You were only eleventh last week.

Johnny—Yes, sir. Five of the boys has been home sick all week.—Philadelphia Press.

It is believed that the action which bars from the Congressional primary all Democrats who did not vote for Goebel will be rescinded, and a more liberal and harmonious policy adopted.

The action of the Congressional Committee has been bitterly condemned by scores of the staunchest Goebel men in Bourbon, and the Bourbon County Democratic Committee has petitioned the Executive Committee to have the action rescinded. The petition is printed elsewhere in THE NEWS.

It is believed that Hon. John R. Allen, of Lexington, will re-enter the race for Congress.

Important Committee Meeting

PARIS, KY., May 19th, 1900.

To The Members of The Democratic Executive Committee of the Seventh Congressional District of Kentucky: Gentlemen:—We, the Democratic County Committee of Bourbon County, disapproving the call adopted by you May 7th, 1900, respectfully request you to change same in the following manner:

First—Amend the call so that all Democrats shall be permitted to vote in the primary election who will support the nominee of said primary.

Second—Allow the County Committees of each County to select the election officers for said primary election in the respective Counties.

We think these changes will be for the best interest of the Democratic party. There are many Democrats in Bourbon County who failed to support the Democratic nominees in the last State election who are now in accord with the party; and we believe we ought to enlarge the party as much as possible.

We believe in "home rule" and not centralization of power and we think it giving too much power to one man, your Secretary, to permit him to select the election officers of the entire District. This is a dangerous precedent.

Furthermore, each County Committee can the better select the officers—the Secretary's acquaintance in most of the Counties is necessarily very limited.

Political Topics.

Hon. James D. Black, a prominent Democrat of Eastern Kentucky, has announced himself as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Kentucky. He was a warm friend of the late Gov. Goebel.

The American Traveling Men's Association blames the Republicans for the existence of the trusts. The drummers will support Bryan.

Gen. Joseph Lewis may be the next Kentucky Democrat to announce himself a candidate for Governor.

Chairman Lusby estimates that $2,000 will be required from the candidates to conduct the Seventh District Democratic Congressional primary.

The Democratic convention of the Sixth Congressional district of Indiana adopted a resolution condemning Gov. Mount for protecting Taylor and Finley. The convention nominated David W. McKee for Congress.

Chairman Jones is receiving many letters of complaint about exorbitant hotel rates in Kansas City, and many Democratic Committeemen want the location of the convention changed.

Representative Gilbert has been re-nominated for Congress by the Democrats of the Eighth district.

The Ninth District Democratic Convention will be held at Cattleburg June 6. Hon. J. N. Kehoe, of Mayesville, will, it seems, be the nominee, who thus far is the only announced candidate for the nomination for Congress.

Here, you betting men! Mr. James J. Coogan, of New York, who gave $100,000 to the Democratic campaign fund, wants to bet $100,000 that Bryan will be nominated and elected. Don't all speak at once.

The A. O. U. W. lodge at Cynthiana and the Elks at Winchester have claimed the same dates in August for their fairs. Here is a chance for the Winchester Board of Health to "protest" some more.

A SPECIAL from Lexington says: The wheat crop throughout Central Kentucky were damaged thousands of dollars by the heavy winds and rains Thursday and Friday. Nearly all rank wheat is down and will not raise. Mill men announce that the acreage is larger by 10 per cent. than last year, but the yield, on account of the storms, will be short of last season.

Neglect is the short step so many take from a cough or cold to consumption. The early use of One Minute Cough Cure prevents consumption. It is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. It cures all throat and lung troubles. Children all like it and mothers endorse it. W. T. Brooks.

A Complimentary Benefit.

On Wednesday evening, June 13th, Paris Lodge, No. 373, B. P. O. E., will give a dramatic performance at the Grand Opera House, for the benefit of the Paris Public Library Fund.

On this occasion will be presented for the first time on any stage the beautiful one act play entitled "To Err is Human," written expressly for Mr. and Mrs. James Ray McCann. Sidney Grundy's clever society playlet "In Honor Bound" will also be presented. Mr. and Mrs. James Ray McCann, Mr. Maurice Hedger, Miss Margaret Ingels and others will appear in the cast of these plays. Among acts the Paris Elks' famous quartette will render vocal selections, and vaudeville will be given by other performers. A splendid orchestra has been engaged for the occasion.

As the Elks never do anything by halves, of course this benefit performance will be a success. The program will be given by clever people of well known ability. The Elks will give a splendid entertainment for a most laudable purpose and it should be and will be liberally patronized.

The performance will be the society event of the Summer season.

In the proper place in THE NEWS will be found the announcement of George W. Judy of this city, for the Democratic nomination for jailer.

The Ladies of the Cane Ridge Church will give an ice cream and strawberry supper Thursday night. The program will include music by Paris talent.

Court Day Sales.

There were about three hundred cattle of good quality on the market here yesterday, but the demand was limited. Jonas Weil sold thirty cattle to Henry Letton for thirty-six dollars each, and Simon Weil sold fifty cattle to Lewis Rogers at thirty-one dollars each. There was a crowd of fair size in town.

For The Visitors.

The scores of Paris people who will have visitors during the Summer cannot find a more pleasant diversion for them than a boating excursion up Stoner on the electric launch "Kentucky." A luncheon spread on the creek side or a picnic enroute would make a jolly little entertainment.

The "Kentucky" will make trips up Stoner every hour every day during the week. A ride up Stoner during the moonlight this week is an ideal pleasure.

Match Shoot To-day.

The match shoot between four Lexingtonians and four Parisians will occur this afternoon at the grounds of the Blue Grass Gun Club. The match will be at 100 live birds at $100 a side. The Century Athletic Club.

More than seventy-five names have already been secured for the Century Athletic Club which is to be organized for the purpose of establishing a first-class gymnasium in this city. It is proposed to have one hundred members to the Club and the roster now shows a fine membership. If you cannot read this small print at a distance of 14 inches your eyesight is falling and should have immediate attention:

Imperial spectacles and eyeglasses have perfect lenses, always perfectly centred and made of purest material, set in frames of the highest elasticity and consequently of greater durability, united with the utmost lightness and elegance. When both frames and lenses are scientifically fitted by Dr. C. H. Bowen's system they always give satisfaction for they are perfect. Never buy cheap spectacles, nor of men who do not know how to fit them. You will get poorly adjusted spectacles, or poor, imperfect lenses, and are better off without any glasses than with either of these defects. Buy Imperial spectacles of a reliable, skillful dealer, and they will last longer without change and be cheapest in the end.

We have engaged the services of Dr. C. H. Bowen who will visit our store on the second and last Thursdays of each month and invite all to call and have their eyes examined, for which there is no charge. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

THE CROAKER.

He croaked when his twins were born:
"Ah, what an expense!" he sighed—
He croaked by day and he croaked at night.
When one of the little ones died,
And he croaked in another way,
On his wretched bed, one day—
Yet, if he has gone to that realm above,
Where all is so rare and so fair,
I'll bet he croaks at the tunes they play
On their golden harps, up there.
—Chicago Times-Herald.

By Frederick J. Burnett.

"Presently a walnut fell from the tree above him and rolled into a little gully, so that the water coming down the hill behind him had washed nearby. He followed it with his eyes, and where it stopped, noticed what looked like a bit of brown canvas sticking out of the ground. Not a little scrap, but appar-

work: of the green lanes of England and the sandy waters of Egypt; of the fjords of Norway, and India's coral strand; of the Louvre and the Vatican; of foreign railway carriages and P. & O. steamers. And in all his thought there was mixed up a pair of gray eyes, in which he had read life's meaning some years ago, but had not representative of their sex and wound up with the contention that in times of war women were quite useless. "What would you do," he demanded, "in the event of civil war?" "Just what you would do, Mr. Greeley," replied his opponent, promptly. "I should stay in my office and write articles urging other people to go and fight."

THE BAMBOO FLUTE.

(Japanese.)

I hear from the shade of the fir trees
The bamboo flute again—
His importunate lamentations,
His passion and his pain.

Proud lords and lovely ladies
Met there in nights gone by,
While the summer moon was sailing
Like a pleasure boat on high.

The lords sang amorous ditties,
The ladies touched the flute,
Where emulous and anxious,
The nightingale was mute.

They rode apart in the darkness,
And greeted moans and hands,
Or adding songs with laughter,
Lined on the yellow sands.

There is more in the flute's music,
Of passion and of pain,
Than he knows. And here at midnight
It comes to me again:

Come back with a silent sorrow,
The flute of years unshed,
The longing for vanished voices,
The loved, the lost—the dead!

CHAPTER VII.—CONTINUED.

A murmur of approval rose from the group, even Mrs. Fanshaw, who sat looking between her two daughters on the porch, granted as if Syd Hart had furnished the key to a problem which involved the welfare of the nation.

Ronald's face was flushed, a look of determination was in his eyes.

"No," he said, firmly; "they must give him a trial."

Sydney Hart leaned back in his saddle and laughed tantalizingly.

"Oh, you want to get a chance at him, eh? You are studying to be a lawyer, are you? You already began to look after the intrust of your gang. Well, you won't make anything out of this job if I can help it."

"We shall see," answered Ronald. "He may not be guilty and you shall not lynch him!"

The rider of the horse leaned towards Ronald and snapped his fingers, a white look of fury unbridled on his sinister face.

"Bah!" he said, contemptuously. "If I couldn't thwart you I'd cut my throat. It's a go, then; you are a-going to give the scamp a trial an' I'm a-going to let the boys have their fun. Ha, ha! you make me sick."

Ronald said nothing and Hart wheeled his horse and, followed by the crowd, he started towards the edge of the swamp. Dave lingered by the side of his brother.

"Don't stick your head in the fire, Ron," he counseled; "no human power can balk Syd when he once makes up his mind. Besides, you'll make a dangerous enemy out of him, an' every thing points to the fellow's guilt. What did he break an' run for if he was innocent?"

"That's what I want to know," interposed Jade Fanshaw, in a surly tone, and his wife and daughters nodded approvingly.

"Because," was Ronald's reply, "he perhaps knew that the law is not upheld in these mountains and was afraid he would be lynched."

"I believe he killed Mrs. Telpy," affirmed Mrs. Fanshaw, "an' as far as I'm concerned, they may take 'im off an' hang 'im. The way justice is cleaved in court is enough to dissatisfy anybody."

Ronald did not carry the argument further. He went up to his room, and from his window watched Sydney Hart placing his men along the road which led by the edge of the swamp. In about an hour Dave came upstairs and leaned in the doorway, an air of indecision on him. "I have been studying over this, Ron," he said, sheepishly; "an' I'm mighty sorry I can't get the whole bug with you, but I just can't look at it like you do. I have decided to make it a draw—I'll not give the crowd your names further. I thought I with you I could see a ghost of a chance of winning, but them fellows would shoot me down like black cats on a white horse."

Ronald looked him over with a steady eye. "I could never feel like a patriotic American again if I do let fight for this fellow's life," he said. "Will you lend me your revolver again?"

Dave slowly drew it from his hip-pocket.

"I feel like you are a-going to get yourself in a awful fix," he said, "I wish you would think better of it. You are me, an' no one man can't run the universe."

"You are right," replied Ronald, "but we can help do it. Our father, Dave, was an outlaw up in Tennessee during the war and I am going to try to atone for his conduct by upholding the law down here to the best of my ability."

David sat down in a chair near Ronald's book-strewn table.

"I've been powerful afraid somebody down here would get hold of all that," he said, with some concern. "I wish we had never located so near his old stamping-ground as this."

"There is no use trying to escape the consequences of crime," responded Ronald. "I believe he thinks of his past night and day. I have seen him jump out of bed in the middle of the night as if he thought some one was trying to kill him."

"And I think ma is as much afeard as he is," answered Dave. "Sometimes I think she took a hand in all of it."

To this Ronald made no answer.

CHAPTER VII.

That morning the negroes on Col. Hasbrooke's plantation, being the first to rise, came first into possession of the greasy news. Many of them had assembled on the steps of the veranda in the rear of the mansion and were speaking of the awful details in low tones.

"Ef de do lay han's on 'im," opined Ephraim, the antiquated and disabled carriage driver of the colonel's father, "Marse Hatcliff couldn't tek 'im a mile to 'ds de jail house, fo' some gang er white trash 'ud string 'im up ter a limb."

"Now you er talkin', Eph," agreed Melvina, the pretty head cook, as she stood in the door washing half a dozen dismembered chickens in a tub of water. "He won't stan' no mo' show dan a stump-tail bull in fly time."

"What's all this about?" The voice came from the upper floor of the veranda, where the colonel stood in dressing-gown and slippers, his round, ruddy face aglow from his morning bath.

Half a dozen negroes essayed to explain, but the result was a noisy confusion of tones and words. The colonel stamped his foot and swore furiously. This left Ephraim with the floor; he was too deaf to hear his master's command for silence. The colonel heard the story from his lips.

"In my swamp, eh?" he exclaimed, when the carriage driver had finished. "a pretty come off! The next thing we hear all the cutthroats in Georgia will be hiding in my corn house and gin, and you lazy scamps will stand by and allow it."

With this parting shot into the black, upturned faces, the colonel retreated into his room to finish dressing and to tell his guests the news. In a few minutes Hardy and Winkle came down from their early morning promenade on the front veranda and they were promptly followed by the ladies.

"I hope they will chase 'im out near us," observed the captain, as he helped himself to one of the colonel's apple-toddies, which James was passing round in a punch-bowl. "As long as I have lived in this section I have never been present at a lynching bee."

As he finished speaking he found himself under the cold stare of Mrs. Lancaster's mild blue eyes.

"I should think, Capt. Winkle," she remarked, "that you would have more consideration for a human life at stake than to look upon the matter as providing you with a new form of amusement."

This young man smiled indulgently as he put down his glass and daintily touched his lips and waxed mustache with his handkerchief.

"My dear Mrs. Lancaster," he cried, "you ladies are such delicious bundles of inconsistency; you would not, in your hearts, have these bloodthirsty fiends run at large, but as soon as one is about to suffer for his crime you fill his cell with flowers. Now, this swamp-rat has killed a helpless old woman and the people are rising to see that justice is done. He ought to be hung, and that promptly."

The colonel was listening to this colloquy as he stirred the apples up in the toddy with an old-fashioned silver ladle.

"Of course," he remarked, "lynch law is a deplorable thing. It is fundamentally wrong, because mistakes have now and then happened; but how on earth are you going to stop it? Why, Mrs. Lancaster, those chaps—Syd Hart, Thad Williams and their ilk—would burn me out of house and home if I uttered a protest in this matter."

"But, papa"—Evelyn stood holding to Mrs. Lancaster's hand, and as she spoke her voice trembled—"but, papa, you must do something—you really must. The man has not been proved guilty; he may be absolutely innocent."

"Ah, there you go!" laughed the colonel as he touched her chin playfully. "You think your old father ought to run the world. Why, I am absolutely helpless. If I telegraphed the governor to order out the state militia, they couldn't get here in time, and if they could these determined mountain men would make it hot for them. Twenty lives would be lost instead of one."

Just then breakfast was announced. The colonel gallantly offered his arm to Mrs. Lancaster, and as she took it she started to draw Evelyn along with her. But the girl drew back.

"I don't care to go in now," she faltered. "I had a cup of coffee in my room. Oh, I am so afraid they will hang him!"

"Well, I shall come out to you, soon, dear," said the widow, tenderly. "Wait for me."

Seated at a window in the drawing-room—she felt too nervous to remain on the veranda alone—Evelyn had a good view of the road running along the edge of the swamp. She could see the ever-strengthening chain of men, their guns and pistols gleaming in the sunlight. To her the sight was more awful than had it been an army in battle array. Presently she saw a figure on a white horse moving along the line of men, pausing now and then as if in argument. She decided that the horse was Ronald Fanshaw's—that he was the rider. Something told her that he was feeling as she felt and that he was trying to influence his neighbors to refrain from illegal conduct. She watched the rider so closely that the strain on her eyes produced a blur in her vision. He was almost out of sight now, and she went out on the veranda to get a more extended view of the road bending round the swamp. She saw black Toke, one of her father's servants, coming up the avenue from the road just traversed by Ronald. Toke had been to the post office and was bringing back a bag of letters and papers. As he handed her the bag she observed a half-frightened look in his eyes.

"Toke," she asked almost afraid to trust her voice to calm expression, "who is the man on the white horse?"

"De oldest Fanshaw young man, missie," was the answer.

"What is he doing?" she asked, with bated breath.

"He's powerful upset, young miss. He is doin' his level best to try ter get an' to let de sheriff tek 'im ter a fair trial. My Lawd! I wish you could a-hear dat young man talk; he sho is bright!"

"Are they paying any attention to him, Toke?"

"Not one speck, young miss; dey des laugh in his face an' tell him dey will hang him ef he fools wid 'em."

As Toke went round the house towards the negro quarter, Evelyn stood holding the bag absent-mindedly. Her heart was in the throat.

"How different he is from the rest of men!" she thought. "Ah, he is my hero! He is my hero! God bless him!"

She opened the bag and spread the letters out on the hall table, their addresses upwards. There were five or six for Capt. Winkle, all dainty pink, white or blue scented envelopes, addressed in girlish handwritings. For barely an instant a slight sneer flitted over her troubled face, and then she turned back into the drawing-room. She went again to the window. She could see the white horse and its rider coming back along the line of men. She could see Ronald gestulating. Sometimes he took off his hat and wiped his brow as if he were fatigued. Evelyn felt a soft hand steal round her waist, and knowing to whom it belonged, she simply pointed towards the horseman.

"Do you see him, Mrs. Lancaster?" she questioned, almost under her breath.

"Who is it, dear?" asked her companion.

"Mr. Ronald Fanshaw," Evelyn looked searchingly in the fair old visage. Her voice had almost a triumphant ring. "He is trying to persuade them to do right."

"How do you know, dear?" Evelyn repeated what Toke had said and added:

"I want you to give your consent to something."

"What is that, darling?"

"Come into the writing-room with me. I am afraid you will object, and yet so much may depend on it."

Mrs. Lancaster's face wore a frown of perplexity as she followed Evelyn through the book-lined library into a little room adjoining. The girl sank into a chair at the table and took up pen. She bit the end of it nervously as she glanced up at her friend.

"I want to send him a line, only a word, saying that I approve of what he is doing, and that I do not want him to lose heart."

Mrs. Lancaster looked dubious as she sat down at the table and leaned her white head on her thin, blue-veined hand.

"I don't think you ought to do it without your father's consent," she said, still looking down.

Evelyn sighed deeply.

"He'd never consent—never; he'd not understand my motive as you do; he'd be perfectly unreasonable, but I do not want you to oppose me—that is, I don't want to do anything without your consent."

The woman addressed now gave Evelyn a steady look.

"Remember, I am your father's guest. I know how you feel, and if I thought it would be quite right I would—"

"You have no idea how little encouragement he gets," interrupted Evelyn, impulsively. "He is the only one among all those people who is trying to do right."

Mrs. Lancaster put her arm round Evelyn's shoulders and gently took the pen from her fingers.

"I love you as if you were my own child, Evelyn. You are too young and inexperienced to see where all this is leading. Oh, you must be careful! If there were no barriers between you it would not be so bad, but under the existing circumstances I should be very culpable to—allow this. He is a noble young man, and I like him—I can't explain why I like him so much, but I do."

With an impatient toss of her head Evelyn waived all arguments.

"If an innocent man should be killed to-day," she said, firmly, "you will be sorry we did not do something towards averting his fate."

Mrs. Lancaster shrank back a little, and then she became very thoughtful. Presently she suggested a compromise.

"Suppose I write to him over my own name; will that do?"

A light kindled in Evelyn's eyes.

"What word do you mean?" asked her companion.

Taking the pen, Evelyn underscored the word "our" and laughingly folded the paper.

"Perhaps it ought not to go that way," protested Mrs. Lancaster, but Evelyn only continued to laugh slyly, as she thrust the note into an envelope and held it under the old lady's eyes.

"Ronald Fanshaw, Esquire," she dictated, firmly, and with a sigh Mrs. Lancaster reluctantly complied.

A moment later Evelyn had slipped out into the negro quarter and called Toke from his cabin.

"Take it to Mr. Ronald Fanshaw," she said, "and do not say a word about it to anyone. Mind, to no one—not a soul!"

CHAPTER VIII.

The greater part of that day the man hunters were beating the swamp for the escaped prisoner. The colonel's household was under a stress of excitement that was sharply on the nerves of the ladies, who momentarily expected to hear of the capture. Grincuriosity had drawn nearly all the negroes to the swamp, and the plantation presented a deserted aspect that had not rested up on it since the close of the civil war.

About noon Capt. Winkle, who had been riding from one point of observation to another, came in to rest and refresh himself at the punch-bowl of his host.

"The rascal certainly has given them the slip so far," he said, with unmasked disappointment, to the colonel and the ladies on the veranda. As he spoke his glance was bent designedly on Evelyn's face. It was as if he were deliberately trying to shock her, well knowing how she felt on the matter. "The sheriff thinks he is lying under water somewhere with only his nose out. They are going through the swamp again after dinner, however, and then they will come his way. We can see it all on this side. The line of men is two miles long; and they have sent for a pair of bloodhounds!"

"Bloodhounds!" cried Evelyn. "Why, they will tear him to pieces."

Winkle smiled broadly over the success of his coarseness, but he said nothing.

"I know I wish it were over," was Caroline Hasbrooke's contribution to the conversation; "these things are so disgusting!"

Evelyn fixed the captain with a contemptuous gaze.

"But the man may be as innocent as you are," burst from her lips. "I mean," she added, spitefully, "as innocent as you are of killing the old woman."

Winkle bit his lower lip and twisted his mustache. He gave her his eyes threateningly for a moment, and then took another tack.

"Fanshaw certainly is making himself conspicuous enough. He's running around shouting like a ranting parson at a revival, but these sturdy fellows take no notice of him whatever."

(To Be Continued.)

KRUGER'S HUMOR.

How the Sly President of the State Played It on Some Trans-vant Countrymen.

Two brothers had inherited a large farm, which they were anxious to divide. But the one did not trust the other, and in the end they went to Pretoria to ask the president for his advice, which was that the elder should make the division and the younger should have the right of selection.

Their fellow burghers remarked: "There is no question of it, the old president's equal is dead."

Half a dozen back-country Boers had come to Pretoria to see the wonders of the capital. With characteristic familiarity they paid the president a visit at the early coffee-drinking hour, and later on during the day he showed them over the government buildings.

In one of the rooms an electric lamp was burning, and as they were passing out the president, with his hand on the switch or button, asked them to blow out the light from where they stood.

The one after the other drew a deep breath, blew out his cheeks and sent forth a tremendous puff, but all in vain, the light burning as steadily as before. Then the president bade them look, and, blowing out his cheeks, slyly turned the switch, blew, and out went the light. The Boers were amazed, and as they left the buildings one of them, who had been more observant than the rest, remarked: "The president must have a wonderfully strong breath, for, did you notice, the light was entirely inclosed in glass."—Cape Times.

A Wasteful Case.

"Did you ever stop to consider," said a well-known detective, "how the principle of economy is entirely lost sight of in the prosecution of trivial cases? For instance, here the other day a man was arrested for stealing five cents' worth of milk. The complainant never stopped to think how much it was going to cost him, but I guess he would be willing to withdraw the charge now. Here he has lost two days' pay on account of the case, officers under pay have put in time that might be better employed, and there will be sheriff's fees to foot for the board of the prisoner while he is in jail. And all for five cents' worth of milk! There is very little economy in law."—Detroit Free Press.

Advantages of Travel.

Miss Budd—Oh, I'd give anything if I'd had the advantages of foreign travel which Clara Bullion has enjoyed. She is so cultivated, so polished. I just wish you could hear her delightful slang.

Mother—Horrors! Does she use vulgar slang?

Miss Budd—Dear me, no. The ideal it isn't American slang, it's English slang. I nearly died of envy when I heard her speak of "blasted, bloody, heastly, nawsty, dirty weather," just like a horn princess.—N. Y. Weekly.

Hidden Beauty

In Egypt the custom is for Princesses to hide their beauty by covering the lower part of the face with a veil. In America the beauty of many of our women is hidden because of the weakness and sickness peculiar to the sex. If the Egyptian custom prevailed in this country, many sufferers would be glad to cover their premature wrinkles, their sunken cheeks, their unhealthy complexion, from the eyes of the world with the veil of the Orient.

Does It Pay To Buy Cheap.

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the ONLY remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Beck's German Syrup." CATARRH: FORERUNNER OF CONSUMPTION.

Few realize what a deep-seated, obstinate disease Catarrh is, regarding it as a simple inflammation of the nose and throat, little or no attention is given it. But, however insignificant it may seem at first, it is serious and far-reaching in its results. The foul secretions entering the circulation poison the entire system. The stomach, kidneys—in fact all the organs—feel the effect of this catarrhal poison, and when the lungs are reached its progress is rapid and destructive, and finally ends in consumption.

It frequently happens that the senses of hearing and smell are in part or entirely lost, the soft bones of the nose eaten into and destroyed, causing intense suffering and greatly disfiguring the face. While sprays, washes and salves may give temporary relief, no permanent benefit can be expected from such treatment.

CATARRH IS A CONSTITUTIONAL OR BLOOD DISEASE, and far beyond the reach of mere local remedies. Those who rely upon them for a cure lose valuable time, meet with disappointment and allow the disease to take firmer hold. Only a real blood remedy can reach this troublesome and dangerous disease. S. S. S. cures Catarrh because it first cleanses and builds up the blood, purifies it, makes it rich and healthy, stimulates and puts new life into the sluggish worn-out organs, and thus relieves the system of all poisonous accumulations.

Mrs. Josephine Polhill, of Due West, S. C., writes: "I had Catarrh, which became so deep-seated that I was entirely deaf in one ear, and all inside of my nose, including part of the bone, was destroyed. When the disease had gone this far the physician gave me up as incurable. I determined to try S. S. S. as a last resort, and began to improve at once. It seemed to get at the seat of the disease, and after a few weeks' treatment I was entirely cured, and for more than seven years have had no sign of the disease."

S. S. S. is made of roots, herbs and barks of wonderful tonic and purifying properties. It is the only vegetable blood purifier known, and a certain and safe cure for all blood troubles. Send for our book on Blood and Skin Diseases, and at the same time write our physicians about your case. They will cheerfully give you any information or advice wanted. We make no charge for this.

They will feed for the first two or three days, and then begin to spin the silk in cocoons. Now we will treat you to the rare spectacle of seeing the first stages of the important production of silk. No similar exhibition has ever been given here before, and while the worms are spinning in the window, we will put on display in our store our entire stock of
